

UP AND DOWN The Avenue WITH THE Editor

The storm yesterday had its very serious aspects and then after it was over there were certain incidents which become humorous as time passes. There was nothing amusing about the report that lightning struck the chimney of the new Clara Hearne School. Nor was it funny at the time to M. D. Collier, F. M. Coburn and Ed Woodruff when they were caught in the storm at the upper end of Slagles Lake where they had been fishing. The lightning cracked all around them, striking trees, the wind blew like fury, they found their passage blocked by falling trees and bushes and when they made for land, wet thru, to a house where they might find shelter from the storm they found the house had been torn down and there was nothing left to do except lie down and take it. After the worst of the storm had passed they had trouble getting back to the landing, what with the lake choked and choked with debris and them wet and cold and shivering. It all makes good telling now but it was no fun yesterday.

Add to list of improvements: Repairing and renovating the Ameen Building on Second Street, store building and rooms upstairs; repairs and remodeling of W. C. Williams home on Jackson St.; repairing and repainting the Shell house, corner Roanoke Avenue and 6th.

Anguish among dog owners: Judge R. Hunt Parker lost his by death recently. Last Saturday, H. D. Camp lost his via the automobile route, police finishing the job after all hope of recovery was gone. Also lost was Boola, who with his owner attended the Holiness tent revival Saturday night and failed to return. He was found yesterday. A secret to all dog owners who lose their dogs: just tell your troubles to the grocery truck drivers and they will come nearer finding your lost dog than a whole fleet of detectives.

Late Tuesday afternoon, the Avenue was treated to a rare sight when Warren and Northampton officers drove thru the city with a huge still on the back of a truck. It was said to be the largest still seized in many a year and it was taken from the Jesse Bradley land near the Northampton-Warren line Tuesday by Sheriff Stephenson, deputies Jordan and Wood of Northampton and Sheriff Purnell and deputy Carter of Warren. The still proper was three feet high, over 12 feet around and had an estimated capacity of more than 300 gallons.

Believe It Or Not Ripley will receive another twister this week from Roanoke Rapids when news is sent of a freak chicken gizzard discovered by Mrs. Pearl Butler. Normal in other ways, the gizzard possesses a chicken toe which protrudes thru one wall of the gizzard and has evidently been there for a long time. The chicken lived on until its natural span of years was up. Those examining the gizzard say the toe is part of a complete part of a chicken foot, evidently swallowed by the chicken in early life. The gizzard has been on display at Williams Funeral Home this week.

Sharp criticism of theatre "bank nights" as a form of gambling was made this week by Judge M. V. Barnhill of Rocky Mount in his charge to a New Hanover County grand jury. Up in this section, it is a little late to get all hot and bothered about it. Bank Nights have come and gone. Like a lot of other fads it caught the public fancy for a time and then came the time when public interest waned and you couldn't even give money away. If it had been a very wicked practice, we think it would have lasted longer.

The hottest spell in a long time was broken by showers here yesterday afternoon. Monday and Tuesday seemed to be two of the hottest days on record, not much perhaps from the reading of the mercury as from the stifling, oppressiveness of the heat waves which boiled up from pavement and earth. There was some real suffering from heat those two days, altho those from the drought areas tell us that we are the most fortunate people on earth. What was exceptionally hot to us has become ordinary weather to folks who have had no rain for weeks and months.

Students From This County In University Summer School

Roanoke Rapids, July 30.—Pearl W. Fishel, of Littleton, W. I. Harris, Weldon; R. B. Parker, Jr., Enfield; Roberta Patterson, Littleton; Mildred Watkins, Enfield; Rebecca Price, Roanoke Rapids; R. R. Reeves, Roanoke Rapids; P. A. Reid, Roanoke Rapids; J. C. Shell, Roanoke Rapids; Margaret J. Sledge, Weldon; and Ivey Watson, Enfield, were among students from this county enrolled in the first term of the University of North Carolina Summer School at Chapel Hill which closed this week.

The second team, which will concentrate all work of the three units of the University at Chapel Hill, got under way immediately and will continue through August 29.

Registration for credit for the second term will be permitted through Tuesday, July 28.

Regarded as one of the most successful Summer Sessions from the point of view of purpose and serious study, the first term this year showed a total enrollment of 1017, representing 609 men and 408 women, an increase of 15 percent over the first term last year.

A large number of institutes and conferences supplemented the regular courses of study during the first term, and several will be held during the second session. Among those scheduled are the third State Conference on Adult Education, July 22-23; a short course in Nursing Education, July 27-August 5; the ninth annual Parent-Teacher Institute, August 3-7; and the 15th annual Coaching School for Athletic Directors and Coaches, to be headed by Carolina's new football coach, Raymond Wolf, August 17-29.

issue, with additional thousands of re-prints distributed over the trade territory, Leggett's Department Store starts their Annual July Clearance Sale Friday morning. This is one of two store-wide sales conducted by the store every year and record crowds of shoppers are expected in the city over the week-end as Leggett's "sales" are long-awaited events by scores of shoppers in the Roanoke Rapids trading area.

Miss Clara Tanner Gets AB Degree High Point Coll'ge

Miss Clara Alice Tanner, of Littleton, N. C., was graduated from High Point College Monday, June 1, with a Bachelor of Arts degree.

Miss Tanner entered High Point College in the fall of '32 after having graduated from Aurelian Springs High School. She was a member of the Nikanthan Literary Society her entire four years in college, and also of the Christian Endeavor Society. She took an active part in her class athletics and played on her class team in the women's intramural tournaments for basketball, baseball, volleyball and tumbling. During her first and second years she took an active part in the Y.W.C.A. and the last year she joined the Art Club.

Mrs. T. A. Peace and family.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

THIS is peach week, the week when the big yellow Elbertas are most plentiful, the week when you will perhaps want to do some home canning and surely eat peaches at least once a day.

Bartlett pears, plums and cantaloupes are also excellent values.

All meats and eggs are higher, though beef and eggs are still inexpensive. Butter is no higher in spite of unfavorable weather, pasturage and crop conditions.

Sweet corn, tomatoes and new white potatoes are the best vegetable values. Here are three menus planned for rent budget levels.

Low Cost Dinner

Cold Meat Loaf Potato Salad
Sliced Tomatoes
Bread and Butter
Vanilla Pudding with Peaches
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner

Roast Lamb Browned Potatoes
Green Peas
Bread and Butter
Angel Food Roll with Peaches
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner

Roast Beef Cantaloupe
Mashed Potatoes
Corn Fritters
Tomato Salad
Rolls and Butter
Peach Ice Cream Cup Cakes
Coffee

STRAIGHT BOURBON WHISKEY

For HIS MAJESTY the AMERICAN CITIZEN

If you can be proud of only that which others cannot afford, the low price of STONEHAVEN may be an objection. But, judged by its quality, independent of low price, "IT'S FIT FOR A KING."

You'll like STONE-HAVEN, its rich, lingering fragrance, its sturdy body and its wholesome flavor. One bottle, even one drink will convince you of its superior merit.

A miracle of science and a model of sanitation combined to make STONEHAVEN a clean bourbon of superlative quality.
